

IPO Watch Europe Survey Q3 2009 (July – September): Full Analysis

IPO Watch Europe, the PricewaterhouseCoopers survey tracking the volume and value of IPOs around Europe, shows some signs of improvement in the value of IPOs in the third quarter of 2009 against what can only be described as dismal comparative periods, including the second quarter of 2009 and the third quarter of 2008.

Typically lower IPO activity occurs over the summer break which tends to result in the third quarter underperforming the second quarter of the year. This year however, there has been an increase in both the volume and value of IPOs in the third quarter with 44 IPOs raising €1,799m across Europe compared to 28 IPOs raising just €456m in the second quarter of 2009. This increase in activity must be seen in the context of the events of the first half of the year where a combination of economic downturn and huge secondary offerings by listed companies dominated the capital markets. While secondary offerings have continued into the third quarter of 2009, these have been at a far lower rate when compared to the first half of the year.

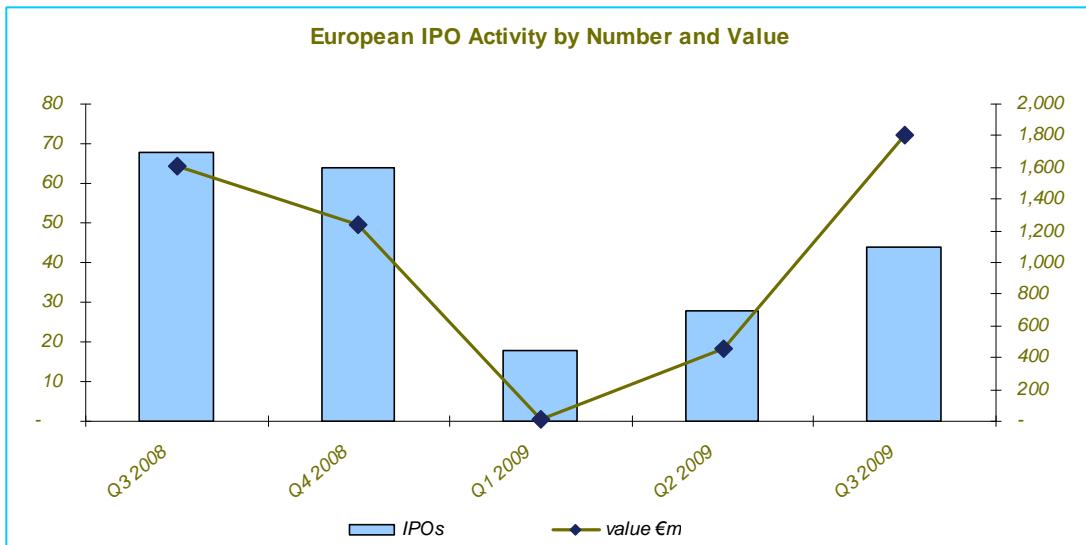

The comparatively low volume and value of IPOs when compared to periods prior to the economic downturn illustrates the continued impact of the investor's loss of confidence in the capital markets. The volume and value of IPOs in the third quarter of 2009 represents just 24% and 14%, respectively, of the IPO activity seen in the third quarter, of what was the last strong year of IPOs, 2007.

The number of IPOs in the third quarter of 2009 has fallen 35% when compared to the same quarter in the previous year (68 in the third quarter of 2008 compared to 44 in the current quarter), however the value of IPOs has increased by 12% against the same comparative period. This has resulted from significant increases in the average amount of new money raised this quarter when compared to both the third quarter of 2008 and second quarter of 2009 (67% and 162% respectively). Notably, the largest five IPOs during the quarter accounted for 81% of the total money raised during Q3 2009, leaving just €343m raised by the remaining 39.

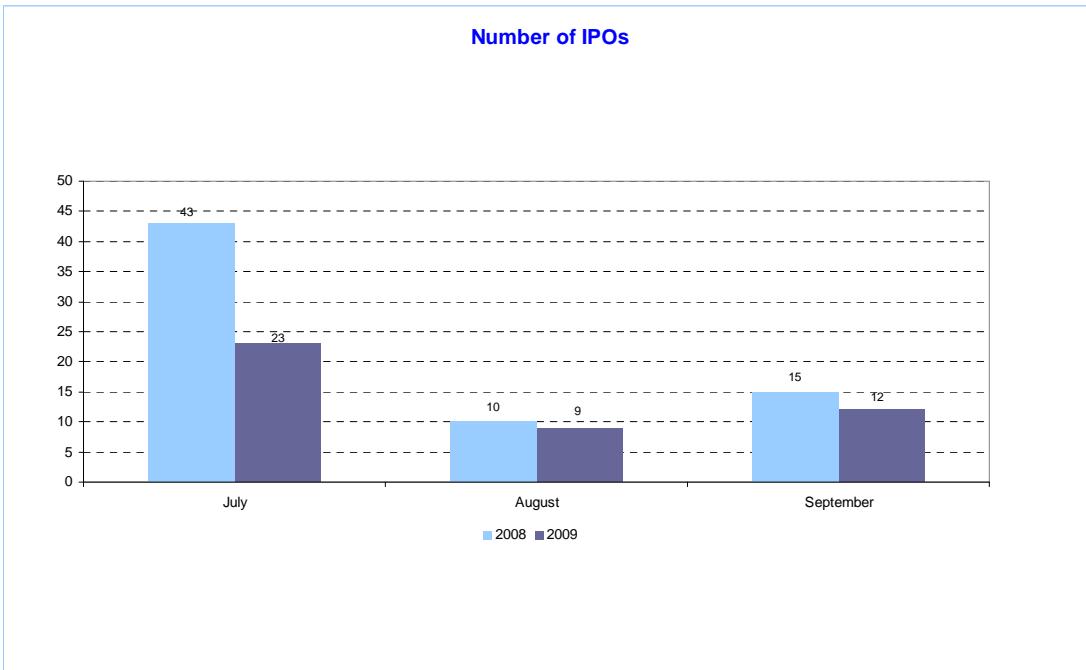

IPOs across the main European exchanges this quarter have been dominated by listings of international companies, with money raised by non-European companies accounting for 97% of the total. There was a total of 13 IPOs by international companies raising a combined amount of €1,746m. It is interesting to note the IPOs by non-European companies have been dominated by Global Depository Receipt (GDR)¹ offerings. In total there were eight GDR offerings this quarter raising a total of €1,596m.

Looking to the future it is difficult to make firm predictions against what remains a fragile economic background, but with investor sentiment appearing to improve and with a pent up supply of private equity portfolio companies considering an IPO exit, we continue to believe that there will be a substantial pick-up in IPO activity in first half of 2010.

¹ The term GDR offering has been used to refer to both GDR and Global Depository Share offerings

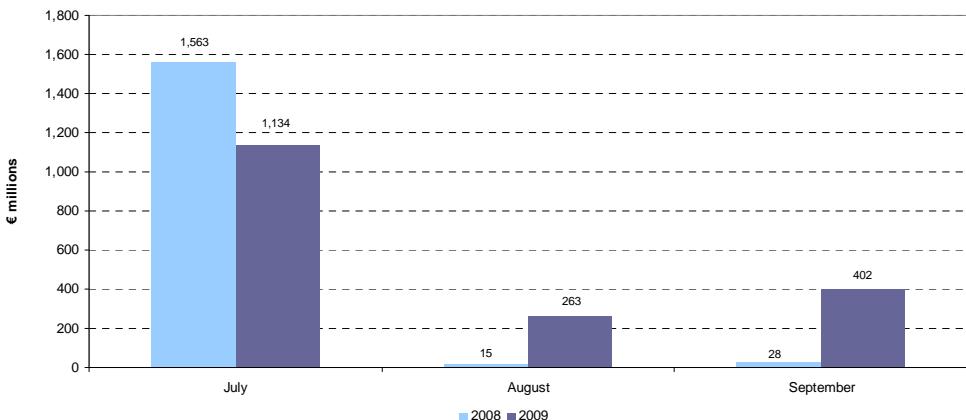

There were 44 IPOs on the European exchanges in the third quarter of 2009, a fall of 35% compared with the same period in 2008 which saw 68 IPOs. The volume of IPOs increased compared with the second quarter of 2009 which saw only 28 IPOs.

The total offering value of IPOs on the European markets in the third quarter of 2009 was €1,799m, a modest increase compared with the €1,606m raised in the third quarter of 2008. The largest IPO of the quarter, raising €424m, was the GDR offering of RusHydro, a Russian power generation company, which is comparable in terms of offering value to the largest IPO in the same quarter last year, that of Commercial Bank of Qatar which raised €444m.

Offering value of IPOs

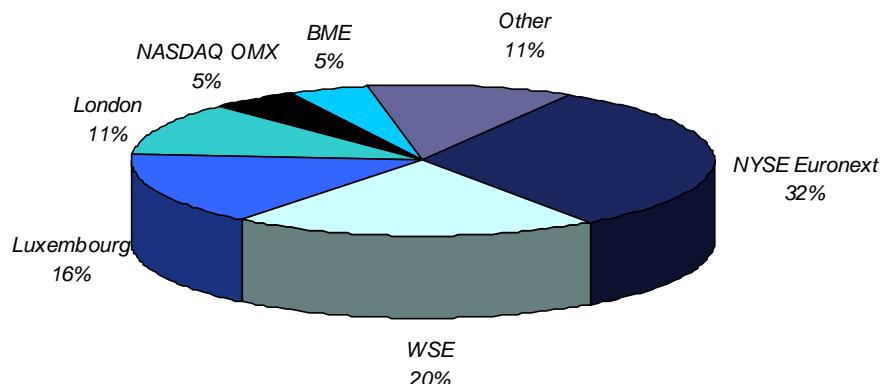

The average offering value for European IPOs raising new money increased by 67% to €55m this quarter compared with €33m in the same period last year. There was also a marked increase compared to the average of €21m achieved in the second quarter of 2009.

This quarter, London was the largest market in terms of money raised with €873m from five IPOs. NYSE Euronext was the largest market this quarter in terms of volume with 14 IPOs although these raised a combined amount of less than €1m.

The largest IPO this quarter, being Rushydro, was a GDR offering hosted by London's Main market and raised €424m. The second largest IPO this quarter was a GDR offering by Tata Steel, an Indian steel production company which listed on London's PSM market raising €355m. The third largest IPO was a GDR offering by Shin Kong Financial Holding Co., a Taiwan based insurance company, which listed on Luxembourg's EuroMTF market raising €266m. The fourth largest IPO was a GDR offering by the Taiwanese technology company, Epistar Corporation, which listed on the EuroMTF market in Luxembourg raising €210m. The fifth position is held by KGI Securities Co. a Tawian financial services company, which also listed GDRs onto Luxembourg's EuroMTF market raising €201m. The third quarter of 2009 saw the first listing on the BME (Spanish Exchanges) Mercado Alternativo Bursátil (MAB) market which was established in March 2008 and has been modelled on London's AIM market.

International listings on European markets

The European markets have continued to attract non-European companies. There were 13 IPOs by non-European companies in the quarter raising €1,746m. This represents an increase in both volume and offering value from the second quarter of 2009 when there were eight international IPOs raising just €24m. The activity of non-European companies compared to the same quarter in the previous year is consistent with the overall trend with volume decreased from 21 international IPOs, however the offering value increased from €915m in the third quarter of 2008.

The money raised by non-European companies represented 97% of the total in the third quarter of 2009, compared to 57% in the third quarter of 2008. Non-European companies chose London, Luxembourg, Oslo and NYSE Euronext as their destination.

The majority of the IPOs by non-European companies in the quarter related to GDR offerings. In total there were eight GDR offerings this quarter raising a total of €1,596m, representing 91% of the total money raised by international companies.

London attracted two GDR offerings, a Russian power generation company which listed on its Main market, and an Indian steel producer which listed on its PSM market. Additionally, London attracted two other international companies, an Indian based wind-farm company which listed on its AIM market, and a Jersey domiciled investment company which listed on its Main market.

Luxembourg hosted six international IPOs during the quarter, two Indian GDR offerings and four GDR offerings from Taiwan.

Oslo Axess attracted one Dubai-based specialised shipping company, which raised €84m.

NYSE Euronext hosted two non-European IPOs on its Marché Libre market, a Hong Kong food and beverage company and an airline company operating flights in Guyana and the Antilles, neither of which raised any funds.

In the third quarter London continues to lead in terms of IPO value, raising €873m from five IPOs, two of which were on its Main market, two on its AIM market and one on its PSM market. This compares with €945m raised from 19 IPOs in the same quarter of 2008, falls of 8% and 74% respectively. London's share of the European IPO market by value fell from 59% in the third quarter 2008 to 49% in Q3 2009. London hosted the largest IPO of the quarter, that of Rushydro, a Russian power generation company, which raised €424m.

It is worth noting the significantly reduced IPO activity on London's Main Market this quarter, which saw two IPOs raising €479m, compared to 9 IPOs raising €837m in the same quarter of the previous year. Additionally, activity on London's AIM market continued to be lower than in the previous year with just two IPOs raising €39m, compared to 10 IPOs raising €108m in the third quarter of 2008.

Luxembourg was the second largest exchange this quarter in terms of IPO value, hosting seven IPOs which raised a total of €817m, a large increase in both volume and money raised compared with the same quarter of 2008 which saw four IPOs raising a total of just €40m. Six of the seven IPOs in Luxembourg were GDR offerings by international companies, two from India and four from Taiwan. In addition Luxembourg also hosted one equity offering during the quarter which did not raise any funds. Luxembourg continues to remain a dominate market favourite in terms of international companies issuing GDRs in Europe.

Oslo Axess was the third largest exchange in terms of IPO value this quarter hosting one IPO which raised a total of €84m, compared with two IPOs raising €19m in the third quarter of 2008.

The Athens Stock Exchange was the fourth largest exchange in terms of IPO value this quarter hosting one IPO which raised €10m. This is the first IPO on the Athens Stock Exchange since the fourth quarter of 2007.

The WSE was the fifth largest exchange in terms of IPO value and the second largest in terms of IPO volume with nine IPOs raising €8m. All but one of these IPOs were on the WSE's NewConnect market.

BME (Spanish Exchanges) hosted two IPOs this quarter, one on its Main market which did not raise any money, together with the first listing on its Mercado Alternativo Bursátil (MAB) market which was established in March 2008 and has been modelled on London's AIM market. That IPO raised €7m.

NYSE Euronext was the largest exchange in terms of volume with 14 IPOs in the third quarter of 2009, which together raised less than €1m. This activity is considerably lower compared to the third quarter of 2008 which saw 20 IPOs raising €260m.

NASDAQ OMX hosted two IPOs this quarter, one on the Main Market and one on the First North market, neither of which raised any money.

The SIX Swiss Exchange, Borsa Italiana and Deutsche Börse each hosted one IPO which did not raise any funds.

The Wiener Börse and the ISE had no IPO activity this quarter.
