About PwC Financial Services

PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) Financial Services is the leading provider of integrated professional services to the top-tier and major financial services institutions in Singapore, encompassing all sectors of the industry, which include banking and capital markets, asset management and insurance.

What sets us apart from others is our considerable weight of experience in the industry – global capabilities and local knowledge – combined with our unique network of experts.

An Asian Powerhouse and Leading Financial Services Centre

With its unique location in the central business district of one of Asia's most cosmopolitan cities, PwC Singapore is within easy reach of major financial and commercial organisations, including the Stock Exchange of Singapore and major banks.

Singapore offers unique experiences that will prepare you for life at the top in Asia. A long-time conduit between East and West, Singapore is an economically vibrant island city-state that benefits from a rich multi-cultural society of Chinese, Malays, Indians, Eurasians and expatriates.

Singapore is a leading international financial centre, home to over 600 local and foreign financial institutions. Its strong fundamentals stem from its reputation for trustworthiness, sound governance and a strong legal framework. Over the years, the range of financial services offered by the industry has expanded to include areas such as wealth and asset management, equity and bonds, foreign exchange and derivative markets. Today, Singapore is one of the most established capital markets in the Asia-Pacific and the largest Real Estate Investment Trust (REITs) market in Asia, excluding Japan.

The areas of global wealth management and fund management have grown significantly and Singapore is currently the largest trading centre for emerging-market currencies in Asia. Singapore is also one of the world's fastest-growing domestic bond markets and a leader in the trading of OTC commodity derivatives in Asia. With total assets of SGD1 trillion under management, Singapore is a premier asset management centre in Asia-Pacific. Having weathered the 2008 global economic crisis, the future of Singapore's financial sector looks bright.

Life at PwC Singapore in Financial Services

Bringing out the best in our people

Rather than us tell you, why don't you hear it straight from our very own people in Singapore.

"Working with PwC has been a tremendously rewarding experience. I have had the opportunity to engage with clients in over 15 different countries, learning to adapt to the different social and corporate cultures, unique to every one. I have had to learn to adapt my style to tailor it accordingly to each different client and social environment. This has been a great opportunity to develop not just my technical skills, but also softer management skills"

Chris Matten

Partner and Global Leader of Risk-based Capital Management. From England. Former banker/CFO of a listed Singapore bank. Prior work experience in the UK, Japan, Switzerland, Australia.

"Working at PwC has provided me with the opportunity to enhance my existing skills and knowledge and to also gain experience in new fields of interest. The wide range of service offerings that PwC extends to its clients coupled with the flexibility that the firm has given me in expanding my horizons to other areas of work has been most fulfilling and there is rarely a day that goes by where I haven't learnt something new."

Jennifer Hamilton

Senior Manager. From Scotland. Former banker with a UK bank in London, New York and Dubai.

"It has been a tremendous experience working for PwC. The company has given me growth in all aspects, including knowledge, skills, and position. All the jobs here are very diverse and challenging. I always feel that I am the same young person that I was when I joined PwC; learning new and different things every single day. To put in simple words, for birds it is nest, for spider it is web, for professionals it is PwC."

Vimal Kewalchand

"PwC has given me endless opportunities to achieve my ambitious and also to broaden my horizons. I'm grateful to be accepted as part of FSIP family, which has provided me with great opportunities to expand my experiences and skills professionally and personally. It's definitely a friendly and great place to be – the support that I get since the day I joined is really fantastic! The fun, sociable culture and friendly atmosphere has made me feel happy and comfortable to be here even though I am far away from my family and friends who are in Malaysia."
