It's a big world. But it's totally connected. As our global network of firms proves. What's more, with over 150,000 people active in 153 countries, we can not only apply a huge array of perspectives to client issues, we can also offer unrivalled opportunities to visit different countries, experience different cultures and benefit from exposure to different ways of working. The result? We get more rounded business advisors. And you get the chance to do something enormously positive for your career. After all, it's no coincidence that 64% of our Partners have completed an overseas secondment. See how far you could go at www.pwc.com/globalcareers
