

Robert Moline

robert.l.moline@us.pwc.com
206.398.3015 telephone
813.637.4394 fax

As a Partner in the Seattle office of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, Mr. Moline specializes in financial, accounting and economic analyses involving complex business situations and transactions. His experience includes a wide range of litigation and investigation matters, including patent, copyright and trade dress infringement, antitrust, theft of trade secrets, unfair competition, financial and accounting investigations, breach of contract, and professional malpractice.

Mr. Moline has developed and refuted damage claims in complex intellectual property cases and has assisted in all aspects of the litigation process relative to accounting, financial and economic issues. He has assisted companies and their counsel throughout the discovery process, consulted on damages issues, has providing expert testimony in several matters, and has served as a rule 30(b)(6) witness for clients on financial information on multiple occasions.

Mr. Moline has significant experience in the technology industry, and is the U.S. Technology Industry Leader for PwC's Financial Advisory Services ("FAS") practice.

Prior to joining PricewaterhouseCoopers, Mr. Moline was an equity analyst with a medium-sized money management firm in Southern California. While there, he performed financial analyses of publicly-held companies. This work included investigating corporate developments, analyzing the potential impact of these developments on the entity's financial status and making specific investment recommendations to the firm's portfolio managers.

Mr. Moline is a CPA and has a B.A. in Economics – Business from the University of California, Los Angeles. He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Washington State Society of Certified Public Accountants, and the Licensing Executives Society.