

Aron Levko is a Principal (non-CPA Partner), who leads the Intellectual Asset Management Practice for PricewaterhouseCoopers in the Americas. He has extensive experience working with corporate management, entrepreneurs and trial lawyers in a broad range of industries. Mr. Levko gained experience in the private sector in his positions as the Car Product Planner for Ford Motor Company from 1972 to 1974 and as the Plant Controller for Rockwell International from 1974 to 1979. He also served as a Principal at Arthur Young & Co. (n/k/a Cap Gemini Ernst & Young) from 1979 to 1986, where he led consultation assignments on financial and manufacturing systems in the Management Consulting Group in Chicago.

In his role as an Advisory Partner, Mr. Levko leads and conducts business investigations from the Chicago office into product, market, and financial issues involving consulting services and expert testimony. He specializes in assisting clients in IP dispute resolutions, transactions, valuations and portfolio management. He helps clients derive value from all forms of intellectual assets. Also, he has extensive experience as an expert witness testifying on damages, reasonable royalty rates, licensing practices, product commercial success and business valuations.

Aron Levko is a graduate of University of Michigan, with a major in Industrial & Operations Engineering. He was a Michigan Higher Education Scholar and received a full tuition scholarship at UM. He also received an MBA, with an emphasis in Finance, from University of Chicago. He was awarded a full tuition scholarship and was on the Dean's List at UC. Mr. Levko is a Certified Management Consultant (IMC) and Certified Production & Inventory Control Manager (APICS). He was granted the Best Seminar Award by the Financial Management Association in 1981 and 1983.