October 2013

2,000+ lawyers and legal professionals in 80 countries

PwC Legal¹

Combining in-depth foreign country tax intelligence and expertise with access to specialist corporate and commercial legal input will ensure that US multinational companies can benefit from receiving local tax advice that has been reviewed for compliance with local legal requirements and from local legal advice to help frame their tax strategies and planning. PwC Legal operates seamlessly with the PwC tax offering to provide an effective one-stop shop to clients. This leads to greater efficiencies and ensures that the tax and legal advisors are working together towards the same outcomes and that no relevant areas are overlooked or duplicated.

¹ PwC Legal refers to the international network of firms. Not all network members operate under this name.

International corporate structuring

PwC Legal comprises more than 2,000 legal professionals in over 80 countries across Europe, the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), Central and South America, Australia and Asia.

International corporate and commercial structuring is one of PwC Legal's key practice areas. PwC Legal's structuring lawyers work closely with their PwC international tax colleagues, in particular those on PwC's International Tax Desks, to provide a strong combined local offering and a specialised cross-border offering.

The intra-group projects that PwC Legal's international structuring lawyers are typically involved in include:

- Asset and business transfers, mergers and carve-outs
- Branch establishments and transfers
- Business transformation and VCT projects
- Capital buy-backs and redemptions
- Capital reorganisations
- Cash repatriation projects
- Corporate simplification and single entity projects
- Cross-border financing and refinancing projects
- Cross-border mergers
- Directors' duties and corporate governance
- Dividend plans
- Dormancy programmes
- Intellectual property structuring
- Migrations and redomiciliations
- Share transfers
