countries*

February 2015 -
January 2017

“GRI reports published after 1st January 2016 should be prepared in accordance with the G4 Guidelines”¹

Why PwC?

We have been a Certified Training Partner since 2011 and utilise an interactive approach using case studies and group exercises for effective learning. We have conducted over 20 GRI Trainings in the region and have trained participants from various industries and also non-governmental organisations (NGOs).

The Training Course

The GRI G4 Certified Training Course aims to prepare participants to understand and coordinate the GRI sustainability reporting process using the G4 Guidelines.

Learning objectives

The GRI G4 Certified Training Course has three major learning objectives. Participants will be able to :

- ✓ Identify and understand the main features of the G4 Guidelines
- ✓ Recognise the tasks and decisions to be made during the reporting process to prepare a G4-based report focused on material Aspects
- ✓ Identify the content expected to be found in G4-based reports

Who should attend?

- ✓ Sustainability and CSR professionals
- ✓ Corporate communications practitioners
- ✓ Investor relations practitioners
- ✓ CSR and Sustainability report authors and contributors

Feedback from past participants

“PwC has ensured that the materials are relevant to our context and have included exercises in each session to allow us to apply the principles immediately which have proved very useful.”

“Credit goes to the PwC team for an interactive course with built-in exercises allowing us to apply the theory learnt”

“Overall, it was a good course that helped build a strong understanding of GRI. Good discussions on materiality and identifying stakeholders.”

“The exercises were very helpful to help people understand the challenges they might face in implementing a GRI G4 report in their own companies. Furthermore the exercises were developed to gradually align with the GRI reporting cycle.”

Participants will receive:

- ✓ GRI G4 Certified Training Course Presentation Deck
- ✓ G4 Reporting Principles and Standard Disclosure booklet
- ✓ G4 Implementation Manual
- ✓ G4 Sector Disclosures
- ✓ Certificate of Attendance from GRI
