EU ACCESSION TRAININGS

Immediately after EU Accession, businesses must comply with EU rules. This means that you may have only 10 months left to adapt your systems to the new requirements.

PricewaterhouseCoopers together with its corresponding law firm D&B David si Baias have developed a comprehensive training programme to help you assess the challenges and opportunities that lay ahead.

The purpose of this flyer is to make you aware of the EU accession training available. Attached you will find the lay-out of our training programme.

Please review the attached training programme and indicate your interest in principle by filling in the attached form.

Fees and location will depend on the number of interested participants. Group discounts will be available for participants from the same company, and for registration to several modules.

We will get back to you by March 15, 2006 with further details on the training programme, which will also be posted on our website.
