

Personal Data Protection Act (“PDPA”)

Developing PDPA policy processes for your business

Practical guidance on developing data protection policy and processes from former Data Protection Commissioner and leading PDPA consultants who have implemented PDPA compliance programs for various clients in the financial, investment, property, industry products, retail, telecommunication and service sectors.

Why you should attend?

Workshop objectives

It may take months to develop and implement PDPA policy and procedures to comply with the law, depending on the complexity of the business. This workshop will help you map and accelerate the process, saving you working time by providing you with:

- Essential PDPA information
- A pre-assembled toolkit to get kick-started, including policy and process/forms template for:
 - Consent management
 - Notification
 - Access & correction
 - Personal data inventory
- Knowledge on how to tailor these templates and operationalise them for your business
- Solid directions on where to start and what are the areas of considerations
- Practical guidance on developing data protection processes with interactive discussion points, hands on activities, and tips from subject matter experts

Workshop overview

- An overview of the Personal Data Protection Act
- How to write the Data Protection Policy
- How to develop the Data Protection Processes and what are the considerations

Testimonials

“This workshop is very structured; the PwC team is knowledgeable and is able to give good advice. I will recommend this workshop to anyone who wants to understand the practical issues concerning PDPA and know how other organisations are dealing with PDPA”.

~ CIO, National Trades Union Congress

“This workshop served as a good forum to discuss practical issues and share good practices. The trainers were able to stimulate and maintain interest among participants and the templates provided were useful.”
