PwC announces support for new post-season football programme in memory of Uthmani Talbot

Hamilton, Bermuda – PwC Bermuda announces the firm’s support and sponsorship of a new, exciting and timely football programme – the UT7 Football Tournament.

Scott Watson-Brown, managing director at PwC Bermuda, said: “We are pleased to partner with organisations that engage with our community to make a difference. Supporting youth education and sports programmes is a key part of our corporate responsibility strategy. This sponsorship is especially meaningful to us as this event will serve as a memorial for our former colleague Uthmani Talbot.”

The new programme is being organised by National Coach Andrew Bascome and Uthmani’s brother, Khomeini Talbot.

“Uthmani insisted that being a footballer wasn't just about the football and sought to help uplift and encourage others,” said Mr Talbot. “We are immensely proud to honour him with the UT7 football tournament.”

Mr Bascome said that with the regular football season coming to an end, there is a critical need to provide the most important footballing age groups; players aged 15 up to 25, the ability to continue to develop and play in a structured manner.

The UT7 Football Tournament is open to all players regardless of club, school or college team affiliation.

“We are truly inclusive assuming that the players live up to our requirements and respect the code of conduct,” Mr Talbot said.

“It is our hope that the UT7 Football Tournament will help fulfill Uthmani’s vision of improving the level of football in Bermuda and that his memory will be a unifying force for the community.”
