Hamilton, Bermuda – PwC announced today that Frazer Lindsay has been appointed CEO of PricewaterhouseCoopers Caribbean Region Ltd., succeeding Darren Johnston, who is stepping down following completion of his term as chief executive officer.

In his role, Mr Lindsay will oversee and coordinate the operations of the network of PwC firms operating in the Bahamas, Bermuda, British Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, East Caribbean, Jamaica, and Turks and Caicos. He has served in a variety of regional leadership roles, including coordinating the Assurance practices of these territories and previously acting as territory senior partner of PwC Cayman Islands.

“Frazer will bring a sharp clients and markets focus to the role and a strong commitment to the development of our people,” said Colm Homan, chairman, PricewaterhouseCoopers Caribbean Region Ltd. “During his term as CEO, Darren has been an integral part of PwC’s growth and success across the Caribbean, and we thank him for his contributions.”

Mr Johnston commented: “I am confident that Frazer’s leadership will further strengthen PwC’s market leading position across the Caribbean. We have a sound strategy in place and the leadership and teams to make it work. I’m proud of what we’ve accomplished together and excited about the future of PwC in the Caribbean.”

Following a brief period of transition, Darren Johnston will be pursuing further leadership roles within PwC.

There are no changes to the territory leadership in Bermuda. Arthur Wightman will continue to lead PwC Bermuda, serving also as Markets Leader and Insurance Leader in Bermuda and for PwC firms operating in the Bahamas, British Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, East Caribbean, Jamaica, and Turks and Caicos.

Mr Wightman commented: “I look forward to supporting Frazer as we continue to drive our growth strategy forward and deliver exceptional value to our clients, people and communities.
