PwC announces three new partners, broadens services amid expansion in Bermuda and regionally

Hamilton, Bermuda – PwC Bermuda today announced three new partners as it continues to build on its leading position in the marketplace and focus on delivering value and exceptional service to clients.

Effective July 1, the firm welcomes Matthew Clarke as a partner in the firm’s Asset Management and Banking practice, and Scott Slater as a partner in Tax Services.

In addition, Robert Stanier joins from PwC US as a new partner in the growing regional Risk Assurance practice, leading PwC’s governance, risk and compliance offering in Bermuda, Cayman Islands and Turks & Caicos. He will help clients to better identify and manage the significant and growing risks to their businesses, including strategic, operational, financial and compliance risks.

“These appointments reinforce our strong commitment to deliver value and quality to the industries we serve and broaden the expertise we bring to our clients,” said Arthur Wightman, PwC Bermuda leader. “We are investing in the Risk Assurance practice to enhance our capabilities to meet the changing regulatory and risk landscape businesses are dealing with in Bermuda and globally.”

Mr Wightman continued, “We congratulate Bob, Matt and Scott on their appointments. We are confident that as our newest partners they will help drive profitable growth and enhance the overall value that we bring to our new and existing clients in the Bermuda market.”

Mr Stanier was director of the risk management and compliance solutions practice at PwC US, focusing on strategic enterprise and operational risk management. He brings a broad range of experience across many aspects of risk advisory and risk assurance with a focus on providing customized solutions to help clients identify new challenges and future opportunities. He will work closely with our Advisory team in delivering data analytics, cyber security and forensics services.

Mr Stanier has led engagements for some of the largest and most recognized global financial services companies.

In his new role, Matthew Clarke will work with Asset Management leader Scott Watson-Brown, focusing on the banking and investments sectors.

Mr Clarke has served in the Asset Management and Banking practice at PwC Bermuda since 2000, advising large multinational banks and traditional asset managers, hedge funds and private equity funds, and leading our services to the firm's asset management and banking clients. His promotion supports the continued strong growth of our Asset Management and Banking practice.

Mr Slater has been a member of the international Tax Services group since joining PwC Bermuda from PwC in Chicago in 2005. His promotion further strengthens our tax team based in Bermuda and the Cayman Islands, providing tax consulting and compliance services to financial services clients, including captive insurance and re/insurance companies, and alternative investment funds.

A US tax specialist, Mr Slater assists our clients with their US and international tax accounting, planning, and compliance matters.

- Matthew Clarke and Scott Slater's appointments are subject to the approval of the Bermuda Department of Immigration.
