PricewaterhouseCoopers announces the sudden passing of partner, Peter Mitchell

March 5, 2010, Bermuda – PricewaterhouseCoopers Bermuda deeply regrets to announce the sudden passing of its partner, Peter Mitchell, at the age of 55.

PricewaterhouseCoopers Senior Partner, Darren Johnston, said, “All of us at PricewaterhouseCoopers are shocked and saddened at the loss of a dear colleague and friend. Our hearts go out to Peter’s family at this very difficult time.”

“Peter joined PricewaterhouseCoopers in the UK in November 1975. He joined the Bermuda firm in 1980 and was admitted to the partnership in 1987. Over a distinguished career, in addition to many other business successes, Peter helped establish and develop a very successful insolvency and corporate finance group in Bermuda and, in 2003, was elected senior partner of the Bermuda firm. Peter went on to be appointed Chairman of PricewaterhouseCoopers Caribbean region in 2009.”

“By virtue of his wide knowledge and experience, clients and colleagues learned to look to Peter for business insights and strong leadership. He will be sadly missed by partners and staff, both in Bermuda and overseas, and by a broader business community.”
