A cyber threat simulation experience

PwC is pleased to invite you to join our Game of Threats™ cyber threat simulation event on May 26. Game of Threats™ is an interactive game which challenges players to make quick, high impact decisions and assess their readiness to respond to a breach. This will be a educational event that will give attendees a better understanding of the steps they need to take to better secure their organizations against cybersecurity threats, in an entertaining setting. Attendees will also be given access to PwC global subject matter experts and have a chance network informally with other security and digital professionals in the local market.
