Training content – Who is it for? What is there for me and my company?

Be a complete manager

Daily challenges for managers become bigger and becomes much harder to find the right answer and solution to the various questions and problems. We welcome all current and future managers, all who want to upgrade their knowledge in order to improve their managerial skills.

IFRSs Basics

Whether you already report under IFRS or are preparing to make the change to IFRS, this course is designed to share PwC knowledge and perspective on some of the critical and complex IFRS issues facing both your company and your industry, as well as contributing to your professional development .

Self-management

The course is intended for current and future managers, all who want to upgrade their knowledge in order to improve their managerial skills. Our tutor, Peter Lazarov is author, consultant for marketing/branding, sales, export, management and co-owner of Macedonia-Export.

Work and residence permits for expats and specific personal income tax aspects

The workshops is intended for those who are in charge for obtaining work permits for foreigners (4 hours) and managing the specific Personal Income Tax aspects related to the work of expatriates in the country (4 hours). You can either apply for single or both workshops.

EFET Agreement training

With a view to the ongoing liberalisation of the electricity market, specific contractual instruments start to be used. The EFET Agreement is an international standardised agreement for trade with energy products, including electricity, which is concluded between the electricity trader and the consumers.

Are you afraid of the dark?

Modern business economies expect all manager position employees to face challenging situations on a daily basis, and to apply skills in dealing with difficult situations. The main obstacle in dealing with these challenges is fear... of changes, of failure, of rejection, of... We welcome each individual ready to learn something more of their own fears and who wants to bring the best out of them.

IFRSs for SME

The course is intended for professionals with a background in finance having a responsibility in the accounting, reporting and/or controlling area in the Companies classified under Small and Medium-sized Entities (SME). Scope, definitions, recognition and measurement and disclosure throughout practical examples.

How to secure monetary claims?

Available mechanisms to the creditors in Macedonia for securing their monetary claims - necessary legal documents and procedures, involved persons and institutions and certain specifics which should be taken into account: Contractual Pledge; Bill of exchange as executive deed; Agreement as executive deed; Debt Certificate; Banking Guarantees; Personal Guarantees; and Cash deposits.

Recent changes to the legislation in the area of business law

This training is designed to share PwC knowledge and experience on the practical implementation of the recent amendments and changes to the legislation in the area of business law.

FIDIC Agreement training

The FIDIC Agreement is an international standardised construction contract, which is widely used by the construction industry professionals and by the investors. The FIDIC Agreement regulates all aspects of the construction project, including design, construction and supervision.

Transfer Pricing

The training is primarily intended for persons in positions of high responsibility, particularly in finance, working in companies that engage in a large volume of related party transaction, operating either within a multinational group or on a regional level.

Financial Statement analysis, reading Audit Reports and different audit services

After this training session you will be able to understand the content and purpose of the financial statements and interpret other information contained in it. Reading of the Audit reports, Audit opinions and difference between different assurance and non-assurance services will be also part of this programme.

IFRSs Update

The IFRS Update training is intended for professionals with background in finance having a responsibility in the accounting, reporting and/or controlling area. Advanced accounting knowledge and experience is required to use the knowledge offered during this course, which will be focus on new and amended IFRSs.

Recent changes to CIT and VAT

Are you anxious about announced changes in our tax legislation? The training will be focused on analysing the latest changes in the CIT concept, as well as on the important amendments to the VAT Law. We will be working on examples and will point out the possible "tax traps" which may arise as a result of these changes.

Deferred Tax

Training will be focused on analysing the questions related to the deferred tax, from the light of the latest Corporate Income Tax Law, from both, accounting and tax perspective.
