M&A activities to spur insurance sector in 2012

Several local insurers look ripe for strategic tie-up

by Kamarul Azhar

PETALING JAYA: Merger and acquisition (M&A) activities, which has kept the financial services industry buzzing this year, is expected to continue in 2012, particularly in the insurance sub-sector, a PricewaterhouseCoopers official said.

Angie Wong, PricewaterhouseCoopers Malaysia’s executive director of financial services said M&A in the local insurance scene should continue to be spurred by low penetration rates in the life insurance market as well as the fragmented general insurance business, thanks to a relatively immature regulatory environment.

The government’s decision to liberalise ownership structures in the insurance and other services sectors in 2009, which raised the ceiling for foreign shareholdings to 70% from 49%, also helped raise the appeal of the Malaysian insurance markets to foreign players, she added.

The foreign shareholding liberalisation, coupled with the industry’s well-defined parameters and structures, have definitely made it more appealing for foreign insurance companies to consider setting up shop in Malaysia, Wong said in an e-mail reply to The Edge Financial Daily.

The introduction of the Risk-Based Capital Framework too had perhaps assisted in spurring M&A activities, though that might not be the main driving force behind local insurers seeking strategic partners, she said.

In 2010, Hong Leong Financial Group disposed its 30% stake in Hong Leong Assurance Bhd to Mitsui Sumitomo Insurance Group for US$98 million (RM383.2 million), which was followed by the disposal of Jericho Asia Bhd’s 80% stake in Jericho Insurance Bhd by CEO Insurer AEC IFA International Holdings Ltd for RM323.2 million.

Earlier this year, Berjaya Corp Bhd sold its 40% stake in Berjaya Sompo Insurance Bhd to its Japanese shareholder Sompo Japan Insurance Inc for RM347.5 million, while AmIG Insurance Bhd has proposed a takeover offer of Kurnia Insurance Bhd.

Market watchers note that there are several other listed and non-listed insurers that look ripe for some form of strategic tie-up with another rival. These include MaxisLife Holdings Bhd, Allianz General Insurance Co (M) Bhd, Pacific & Orient Bhd and LPI Capital Bhd. There’s also local re-insurer MMIB Holdings Bhd and Takaful player SinDak Takaful Malaysia Bhd, they point out.

A number of book runners are already targeting larger listed groups. For example, Berjaya Capital still owns 30% of Berjaya Seguros Insurance while AMIG Insurance Bhd’s AMMB’s stable and Multi-Purpose Insurance Bhd comes under Multi-Purpose Holdings Bhd’s (MPHB) umbrella.

Meanwhile, Multi-Market-listed Malayan United Industries Bhd (MUTI) has a 52.31% stake in MMB Continental Insurance Bhd, there are also insurers under banking groups such as AIA Affin Group and CIMB Aviva Bhd.

Market watchers said:

PwC’s Wong said her view of increased M&A activity is backed by findings of a recent survey conducted by her firm with regards to the prospects of M&A in the financial services industry in Malaysia over the next twelve months.

Malaysian respondents to the survey were strongly positive about the prospect of M&A in the Malaysian market, she noted, outputting confidence shown by respondents from other markets in Asia. Some 63% of Malaysian respondents say that M&A activities will increase slightly in the next 12 months, compared to only 48% of the wider sample from Asia Pacific, according to findings from PwC’s Emerging Opportunities surveys. Financial Services M&A 2011 survey released late-November.

The study also found Malaysia ranked high on the list for the most attractive territories in Asia Pacific for cross border M&A, or a market to see new foreign entrants. Malaysia was ranked sixth most attractive — behind China, Singapore, Thailand, Hong Kong and Indonesia — but ahead of Vietnam, Australia, India, the Philippines, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan.

Meanwhile, Asian insurance market will reportedly see sustained growth in 2012, according to a recent research conducted by Swiss Re’s Economic Research and Consulting.

Life insurance premium in Asia is projected to grow by 4.4% in real terms, compared with a 6.8% growth in 2011, the report said. On the other hand, non-life insurance premiums in Asia is forecast to grow at a slower rate of 6.0%, compared with 8.1% growth rate in 2011.
