Making a difference

International development has made great strides in our lifetimes. But the world’s poorest and most vulnerable communities continue to face huge challenges. PwC is assisting governments, donors, foundations and NGOs across the globe to help manage their international programmes, funds and internal operations to help alleviate poverty and boost global economic growth.

PwC has worked with development agencies globally for more than 50 years and are currently engaged by bilateral and multilateral funding agencies in over 60 countries. We are truly global – with over 180,000 staff working in 756 locations across 157 countries. And we care about doing the right thing for our clients, our people and our communities.

In Nigeria, we are one of the leading professional services firms actively involved in development work and using our influence, knowledge and reach to positively impact the poorest and most vulnerable people in society through partnerships with government and development agencies. For example, we supported the Federal Government initiatives targeted at raising entrepreneurship to MSME businesses and giving them a means of livelihood. We focus on delivering impactful programmes and our International Development team differentiate ourselves from the market by our ability:

- to bring together bright people in effective teams who understand local context, possess deep sectoral knowledge and know how to leverage the diverse skillsets, breadth and scale of PwC.
- to deliver needs at very large scale, with high complexity and across the length and breadth of the nation.
- to manage risks and funds, maintaining high levels of trust with clients and meeting compliance requirements.
- to offer solutions which combine our knowledge and understanding of the public sector with the acumen andpercipience from our private sector expertise.

This brochure gives you a flavor of our current work in international development. It explains how we operate and what we are trying to achieve. It also shows the difference our teams are making on the ground.

We can only do this thanks to the ambition, belief and talent of PwC staff and our strong culture of partnership. If you have any feedback or would like to find out more, we would love to hear from you.
What we do

We are at the forefront of building standardised practices to aid optimal service delivery. As a goal oriented firm, we start every project with a focus on the end. At every interaction we seek to make a difference and bridge gaps through value adding relationships.

Themes

People: Improving the quality of life of citizens and residents through sustained access to basic services.

Economy: Building a thriving economy through improved business environment, inclusive growth and diversification.

Governance: Increasing accountability, transparency and trust between governments and their people resulting in better governance and security.

Infrastructure: Support the provision of standard facilities, safe cities, and secure habitats, leveraging innovation and technology.

Solutions

Programme Management: At PwC, we support international development through apt research and high-value points of view and concepts, translated into tailored programme and project designs. We assist with programme implementation and delivery, monitoring and evaluation.

Fund Services: We administer funds on behalf of donors for the achievement of developmental outcomes throughout every stage of a programme: from fund establishment through to closeout and final reporting.

Donor Services: We render a wide-range of services to development partners, donors, multinationals, NGOs and foundations and/or their beneficiaries along our various lines of services and solution sets including assurance, public financial management, strategy, operations, people and organization, technology, corporate finance, investigations, capital projects and tax.

CDKN.org - The CDKN website is a leading knowledge practice hub on climate compatible development, with over 10,000 views monthly.

Health Research Institute
PwC is at the forefront of leading studies on the accessibility to opportunities, for example, the use of mHealth which enables mobile communication in emerging markets to significantly improve quality and access of care and support health practitioners in delivering services.

Public Sector Research Centre
PwC provides clients with thought leadership publications to:

- Generate insight in worldwide trends and market issues in the government sector; and bring together the lesson learnt to support the improvement of national government markets
- Identify solution which can help policymakers, strategic leadership and administrators in Government institutions to implement drivers for change
- To inspire all parties in Government markets to look over their own borders and improve sustainable service delivery

Events
We organise events that bring together donors and development practitioners to debate hot topics in development – from smaller ‘catalyst’ events where issues, experiences and new development ideas are discussed to our annual flagship International Development conference attracting over 260 attendees.

Our focus areas

People

Multi-sectoral impact
With our breadth of experience, multi-disciplinary and multi-sectoral teams, we are able to deliver high impact programs addressing issues on health, education, sanitation, women and children.

Grassroots involvement
PwC is a global network of firms with strong localized presence. Our extensive local reach is demonstrated in our work across the nation from the extremes of Sokoto and Borno in the North to the coastal areas of Rivers and Lagos in the South transforming people, structures, systems and society.

Inclusion and sustainability
Our approach is to focus on interventions and reforms that are sustainable, inclusive and have long term measurable impact. We are able to achieve this through our work with governments, development partners, donors, NGOs and the private sector in supporting the course of human capital development.

Fund Services
Managing funds is in our DNA – and we draw on PwC’s unrivalled global expertise to manage and administer large donor funds throughout every stage of a programme: from fund establishment through to closeout and final reporting.

We consider the work we do in fund services as delivering funding for development outcomes. Our fund services delivery model is based around three key phases:

- Fund establishment
- Fund appraisal and contracting
- Fund administration, monitoring and reporting

Drawing on our experience and expertise, we can help to support the management of programme, reputational and fiduciary risks.

Our Government Services Delivery Centre in Belfast acts as a ‘one-stop-shop’, supporting all aspects of the fund administration value chain. This includes marketing, due diligence, contracting, disbursement, monitoring and reporting.

Donor Services

When international development donors, multinational organisations, NGOs and foundations want to be more effective, accountable and respond better to specific challenges, they turn to PwC’s global network.

Our experts complement the skills of each organisation’s existing teams while providing skills in gap areas. Our services can be broadly categorised into three (3) lines namely: Assurance, Tax and Advisory services.

On a more specific note we render a wide-range of services to development partners, donors, multinationals, NGOs and foundations and/or their beneficiaries including project and statutory audits, non-audit assurance, public financial management, strategy, operations, people and organization, technology, corporate finance, investigations, capital projects and tax.

“Working on development projects and being part of teams contributing to sustainable impact gives me unlimited satisfaction”
Ada Nwibor, PwC Nigeria

Drawing on our vast experience, we add value beyond administering of funds to suggesting improvements and helping to refine programmes, making them ‘better fit for purpose’ and facilitating achievement of the desired donor outcomes.

How we deliver our services

We help government departments, public and private sector organisations to improve the effectiveness of their international development activities in three core ways:

Design
Apt research and thought leadership underlies our work at PwC. Our teams support government and the development sector in assessing current realities and trends, and formulating concepts and points of view.

Our approach to programme design is to formulate theories of change – defining innovative logic on how change happens and the programme’s intended contribution to change/what we think will change and how change will be recognised. With theory of change agreed with project sponsors, we then turn robust concepts into meticulously designed programmes, with detailed logframes and project plans.

Deliver
We support governments and development partners at various points and stages in the implementation of projects and programmes. Our support ranges from technical advice to financial management and hands-on implementation support. Our experts use tried-and-tested approaches, tailored to individual projects and programmes.

We add value to this process by providing additional insights, suggesting alternative ways of working based on our deep local knowledge and wide professional expertise.

Monitor and evaluate
Our range of monitoring and evaluation skills helps programmes monitor performance, learn lessons, evaluate and evidence value and impact.

“Providing standard facilities, safe cities, and secure habitats, leveraging innovation and technology”

Capital projects
The complex nature of capital intensive and infrastructure projects present unique risks. PwC bridges the gaps by facilitating public-private partnerships, providing fund-raising assistance and project management. PwC provides the right mix of skills and expertise required for successful projects across several sectors such as power and utilities, energy and mining, transportation and logistics, construction, real estate, industrial manufacturing, and others. We partner with our public and private sector clients across the entire project lifecycle.

Climate action and natural resources
We advise our clients on how to be climate resilient and mitigate the risks associated with climate variability. We work with clients to identify development pathways, which direct finance and structure projects activities that reduce risks.

but also develop economic, social and environmental outcomes. We are a leader adviser in sustainable natural resource utilization, assisting our clients to identify climate smart solutions to issues of food security, agriculture, carbon emission and green growth planning.

Innovation and technology
Technology is a key lever of success in today’s business world. Nations that effectively use technology differentiate themselves in the increasingly competitive marketplace while those that ignore technology tend to fall behind in the journey to development. We have leading expertise in harnessing new technologies and innovative approaches such as Mobile Health, social media data analytics, and M&E-solutions. We regularly pilot and assess new solutions to entrenched problems.

Economy

Business Environment
We provide advice to governments and work with development partners on how to improve the nation’s investment climate, create enabling environments for businesses to thrive – with a particular focus on improving their ranking in the World Bank’s Doing Business index.

Inclusive growth
We focus on inclusive business initiatives for companies and donors. This philosophy underpins our disposition to working with small and medium scale enterprises and the private sector in ensuring business turnaround and growth with wider impact on employment generation and GDP growth.

Economic Diversification
With the common knowledge that no nation succeeds on mono-economy, we are positioned to support government in developing a new economy that is non-reliant on oil revenues as its sole source but recognizes and focuses on other less-popular and non-conventional economic segments with high growth potential.

Impact investing
We have a dedicated team who provide advice on strategy, structure (tax and legal), mergers & acquisitions, corporate finance and impact investment who work with donors, private and public sector agencies and investment funds.

We are at the forefront of building standardised practices to aid optimal service delivery. As a goal oriented firm, we start every project with a focus on the end. At every interaction we seek to make a difference and bridge gaps through value adding relationships.

Themes

People: Improving the quality of life of citizens and residents through sustained access to basic services.

Economy: Building a thriving economy through improved business environment, inclusive growth and diversification.

Governance: Increasing accountability, transparency and trust between governments and their people resulting in better governance and security.

Infrastructure: Support the provision of standard facilities, safe cities, and secure habitats, leveraging innovation and technology.

Solutions

Programme Management: At PwC, we support international development through apt research and high-value points of view and concepts, translated into tailored programme and project designs. We assist with programme implementation and delivery, monitoring and evaluation.

Fund Services: We administer funds on behalf of donors for the achievement of developmental outcomes throughout every stage of a programme: from fund establishment through to closeout and final reporting.

Donor Services: We render a wide-range of services to development partners, donors, multinationals, NGOs and foundations and/or their beneficiaries along our various lines of services and solution sets including assurance, public financial management, strategy, operations, people and organization, technology, corporate finance, investigations, capital projects and tax.
International development has made great strides in our lifetimes. But the world’s poorest and most vulnerable communities continue to face huge challenges. PwC is assisting governments, donors, foundations and NGOs across the globe to help manage their international programmes, funds and internal operations to help alleviate poverty and boost global economic growth.

PwC has worked with development agencies globally for more than 50 years and are currently engaged by bilateral and multilateral funding agencies in over 60 countries. We are truly global – with over 180,000 staff working in 756 locations across 157 countries. And we care about doing the right thing for our clients, our people and our communities.

In Nigeria, we are one of the leading professional services firms actively involved in development work and using our influence, knowledge and reach to positively impact the poorest and most vulnerable people in society through partnerships with government and development agencies. For example, we supported the Federal Government initiatives targeted at raising entrepreneurship to MSME businesses and giving them a means of livelihood. We focus on delivering impactful programmes and our International Development team differentiate ourselves from the market by our ability:

- to bring together bright people in effective teams who understand local context, possess deep sectoral knowledge and know how to leverage the diverse skillsets, breadth and scale of PwC.
- to deliver needs at very large scale, with high complexity and across the length and breadth of the nation.
- to manage risks and funds, maintaining high levels of trust with clients and meeting compliance requirements.
- to offer solutions which combine our knowledge and understanding of the public sector with the acumen and percipience from our private sector expertise.

This brochure gives you a flavor of our current work in international development. It explains how we operate and what we are trying to achieve. It also shows the difference our teams are making on the ground.

We can only do this thanks to the ambition, belief and talent of PwC staff and our strong culture of partnership. If you have any feedback or would like to find out more, we would love to hear from you.
