Color Accounting™
Visual approach to learning Accounting and Finance
23 November 2015

Objectives
To bring financial literacy to non-financial professionals through a revolutionary approach that teaches accounting literacy in an interactive, engaging and visual way.

Benefits of Attending
Do your staff realize the financial implications of the business decision they make?

Ever wished that you could remove the fear from finance and accounting and improve the financial literacy in your business?

Do you see accounting as one big hole of uncertainty?

Do you feel threatened by numbers: balance sheets and income statements?

Does accounting jargon mystify you? Debits and credits, journal entries, general ledgers, budgets!

Do you have a mental block against accounting and finance?

What if financial reports were to actually tell a story that you could see and that made logical sense?

By attending this workshop, participants will:
• Gain new insights into how businesses generate profits and cash
• Make more informed decisions
• More confidently read financial information
• Analyze the financial position, performance and changes in their business
• Develop the skills to communicate powerfully with their staff, advisors and financial experts

Who should attend?
Our workshops are applicable and accessible to anyone on any level who needs accounting literacy to improve their ability to do their job.

Accounting comes alive through a simpler and easier way of learning through colors and language!
Workshop Agenda

- Develop a deep understanding of the Balance Sheet and Income Statement and their relationship.
- Use the BaSIS Framework™ to clearly and unforgottably define Assets, Liabilities, Equity, Revenue and Expenses.
- Understand the Value Cycle of business and how it relates to you.
- Practise financial communication: grasping not only terminology, but also ambiguity of terms, and communication pitfalls.
- Analyse financial information of a business and identify risk areas, performance changes and opportunities for improvement.

About the workshop leader

Mark Robilliard, FCA
Co-founder & CEO Americas
Color Accounting International

Mark Robilliard, is the co-founder of Color Accounting International, the social enterprise behind Color Accounting.

Mark is based in the US and Australia and is an experienced international trainer and facilitator. His speciality is accounting literacy using the unique BaSIS Framework™ model of Color Accounting.

Color Accounting is being used to improve accounting literacy all over the business and not-for-profit world and is now being used in secondary and tertiary education. Tens of thousands of happy participants and thousands of workshops are a testimony to the success of this unique approach to accounting literacy.

What people say :

“I thought it was a great introduction, not just to 'accounting' but also to a lot of essential business skills; more like finance in business 101.”

“We included the Color Accounting workshop in our annual management conference. We wanted to empower our managers by assisting then to read, understand and interpret financial statements. When our people are accounting literate they are in fact business literate and able to make more informed decisions, which in turn has an impact on customer service, and ultimately drives profits and shareholder value.”
