

Tax Reporting and Strategy

Today's tax functions are facing unprecedented levels of external pressure and internal challenge to meet the increasing demands being placed on them to do more with less. In an already resource and cost constrained function, this constantly-changing environment is driving the need for change.

Internal and external pressure to evolve

Pressure to reduce costs and headcount

Increased scrutiny from global revenue authorities

Increased complexity for reporting and compliance

Finance transformation

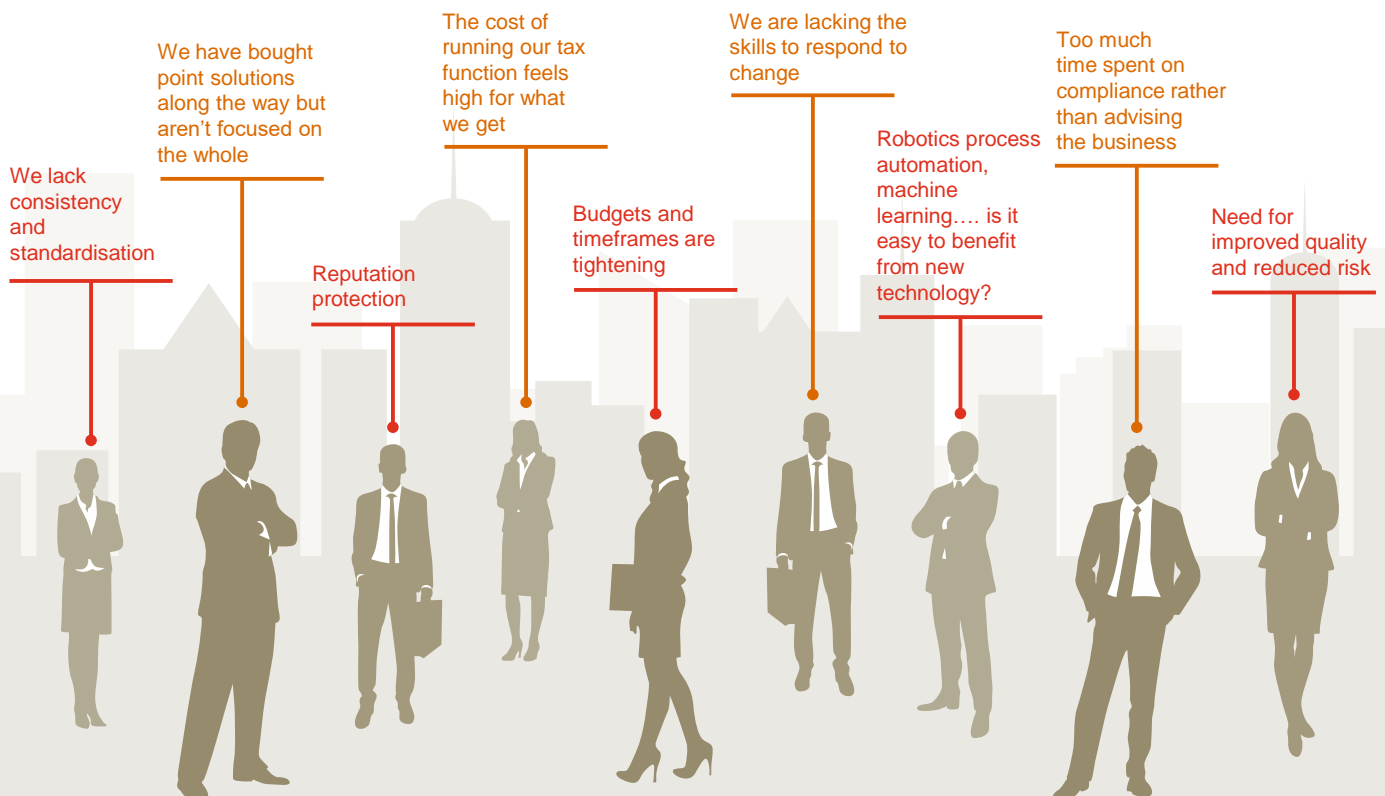

Introduction of new technologies

Globalisation and expansion into new markets

The case for change

What are our clients' CFOs, Global and APAC Tax Directors telling us?

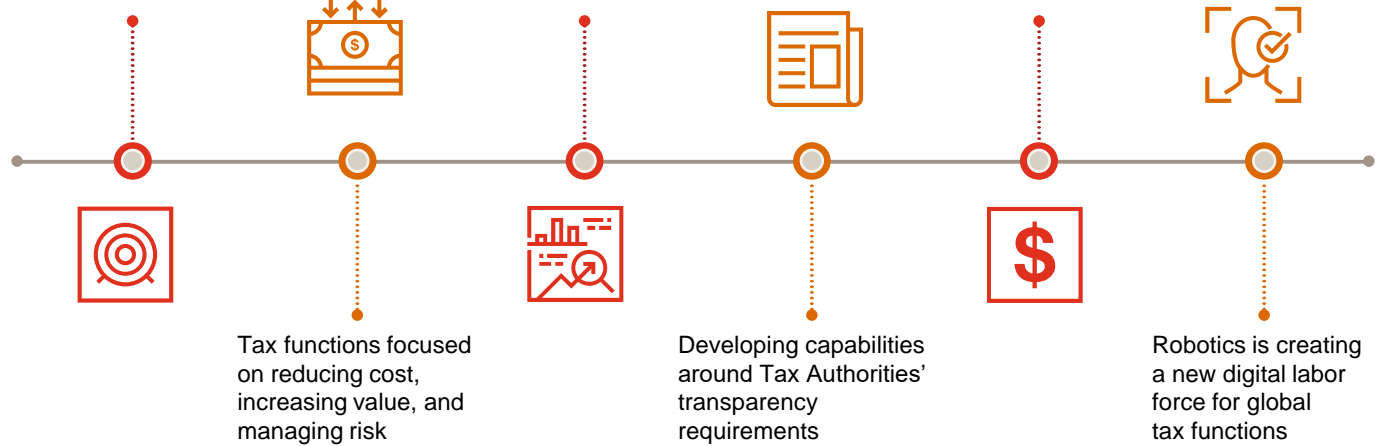

Tax functions are evolving to meet the challenges

Target operating model re-evaluation – is the tax function fit for purpose?

Tax transformation is focused on targeted solutions

Moving to the cloud for ERP systems – finance transformation opportunities
