Alumni FAQ
A few of the most common questions posed by PwC Alumni appear on this page.

I am interested in returning to PwC. How do I learn about open positions that match my skills and experience?
Thank you for your interest in possibly returning to PwC. Please visit the PwC Careers section on our careers website where you can find additional details on opportunities that you might be interested in within PwC. On this site you can familiarize yourself with our lines of service to see what open opportunities are available. Select "Find your position" and customize your search to locate job openings based on your skills set and preferences. Then select "apply" to create and submit your online Talent Profile for the job opening.

What types of benefits would I be eligible for if I returned to PwC?
You can explore our benefits that are most meaningful to you through our Benefits site or you can explore through your smartphone by texting “pwc” to 88202 to get a link to a mobile site with videos on many of our benefits.

I still have educational loans to pay off. Does PwC have any programs that are designed to support me with my student loan debt?
PwC's Student Loan Paydown (SLP) benefit provides eligible associates and senior associates with $100 per month (or $1,200 per year) paid directly to their student loan servicer for up to six years, or until promotion to manager (whichever comes first). The SLP benefit has the potential over time to help eligible staff reduce their student loan principal and interest obligation by as much as $10,000 and shorten their loan payoff period by up to three years. PwC is the first in the industry to offer this type of benefit. For more information please see our Benefits page and explore the “Student Loan Paydown (SLP) section.

I'm not interested in a specific job opportunity at this time, but how do I make sure I'm connected and receive updates from PwC?

I see that there are several different sites that enable me to remain connected with PwC. What are the differences between these sites?
Each site has different membership groups and different areas of focus:

1. The Alumni Career & Resources website has been created to help our alumni reconnect and explore opportunities to rejoin our firm. Since the site is strictly career focused, it provides a dedicated platform for our alumni who may be interested in returning to the firm.

2. The PwC US Alumni Network and the Strategy& Alumni website both feature the stories of a number of alumni and their accomplishments. The sites provide program information, firm news and publications, professional learning opportunities, and a place to update your alumni profile.
