
Accelerating business and IT transformation from strategy through execution

PwC and Hewlett Packard Enterprise

The era of technology-enabled business strategy has arrived. Technology has moved beyond a supporting role in the value stream—in today’s disruptive digital economy, technology is a critical component that drives value itself.

In this technology-empowered business environment, success will be determined by how quickly you can transform your organization to stay ahead of your competitors, stay relevant to your customers, and make your employees more productive.

Key business challenges facing today’s companies include:

- Accelerating the impact of technology
- Securing digital assets
- Unlocking data possibilities
- Creating competitive advantage

To meet these challenges, businesses need a strategy-through-execution approach to accelerate business and IT transformation.

Taking a business-focused approach, PwC and HPE combine PwC’s leading business transformation capabilities with HPE’s leading technology portfolio and expertise to co-create end-to-end global solutions that help our joint clients win in the marketplace.

How PwC and HPE can help

Building on a relationship that has spanned nearly 40 years, PwC and Hewlett Packard Enterprise (HPE) co-create to build global solutions that help our joint clients win in the marketplace. With a track record of successfully serving joint clients, PwC and HPE combine PwC’s leading business transformation, process, and organizational change capabilities with HPE’s leading technology portfolio and expertise. Together, we can help you develop and accomplish an end-to-end strategy to transform business and IT operations, as well as to drive business growth through innovation.

PwC is a leading professional services firm globally and consults on clients' most complex business issues, bringing deep experience in developing business strategy and enabling process change with an industry point of view.

HPE is a world-leading IT company with a broad and deep portfolio spanning the cloud, the data center, workplace applications, security and data analytics. HPE's technology and services help customers around the globe make IT more efficient, more productive, and more secure.

With limited overlap in capabilities, PwC and HPE complement each other to deliver integrated solutions from strategy through execution. Accordingly, PwC and HPE have a winning track record of results with multinational clients.

Together, PwC and HPE are helping to drive technology-enabled solutions for enterprises worldwide addressing each of the four key business challenges:

- Accelerating digital and technology impact: From helping plan your digital strategy to executing its vision, we can help you transform to better keep pace with today's speed of business, inclusive of hybrid cloud for the new breed of applications, DevOps, IT infrastructure consolidation, and more.
- Unlocking data possibilities: Using analytics services and solutions, we help extract value from all of your data and help you uncover real-time, actionable data-driven insights while identifying opportunities, risks and new business learning.
- Securing assets: We help proactively protect your enterprise by monitoring and securing interactions between users, applications, and data across any device and location, and help you think more broadly about cybersecurity and privacy.
- Growing and creating a competitive advantage: We deliver experiences that can help empower your customers and employees through digital workplace solutions that make engagement possible any place, any time and on any platform.

PwC and HPE: Co-creating value for our joint clients

PwC and HPE are uniquely positioned to help clients accelerate business and IT transformation because of the complementary synergies we each bring, as proven time and again over the years of our alliance. Together our harmonizing capabilities enable a full portfolio of solutions that help businesses accelerate digital, unlock data, secure assets, and grow competitive advantage.

Contact us to learn how your organization can accelerate its transformation to stay ahead of your competitors, stay relevant to your customers, and make your employees more productive. Talk with us about accelerating your business and IT transformation to achieve better outcomes.

For more information, please visit www.pwc.com/us/hpe

Or Contact:

Nimma Bakshi
PwC Global Alliance Leader for HPE
(415) 498-8072
nimma.bakshi@pwc.com

Charlie Latch
HPE Global Alliance Leader for PwC
(512) 319-1125
charlie.latch@hpe.com